

ECONOMICS SENIOR PROJECT 22-23

ECON 464

All students majoring in Economics must enroll in ECON 464 to complete their senior project requirement. For the 2022-2023 Academic Year, ECON 464 is being offered in the Fall, Winter, and Spring.

In this course, students write an independent research project on a topic of their choice. Most research projects are quantitative in nature, involving the development of new economic theory and/or data analysis using appropriate statistical or econometric methods. Through this course, students identify an interesting research question, conduct a literature review on the chosen topic, identify the methods to be used to answer the research question, complete the analysis, and write a paper that clearly motivates the research and explains the results of the analysis.

- Past examples of economics senior projects are available on the department website found here.
- For additional information, students can contact Professor Lepore by email at jlepore@calpoly.edu or in person in room 03-343.

This information is derived from past Senior Project Offerings of previous quarters and is here to provide a general overview. There is no guarantee that these courses will be offered in the future.